

5

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of determining a target load for a reverse link channel in a CDMA base station, comprises determining a target frame error rate for a base station and computing the target load as a function of the target frame error rate and a measured frame error rate.

10